Dear EPA/Harbor Comments,

We moved to Portland, Oregon, 4 years ago because of the environmentally conscious atmosphere, the access to natural forests, the ocean and the beautiful Willamette River. Gradually I became aware of the actual toxicity of this river and the hazards it held for residents and our wildlife. I was shocked to learn the details: Portland Audubon recommends that at least 1,000 acres of polluted sediment be removed from the river, the draft "clean-up" relies on the hope that the pollution will be flushed downstream, fish from the river is unsafe to eat. The entities with liability for the pollution must be held accountable and must pay for the clean-up. Please do not let the EPA's current plan, which will leave the river contaminated for decades, go forward. Thank you for reading this and others' heartfelt and fact based pleas for our river! (b) (6)
